Spring 1992

COMING SOONER THAN YOU THINK: REUNION '92

Teddy Christon '42

The annual Alumnae/i Association Reunion and homecoming will take place on Sunday, May 31, at Hunter High School, 71 East 94th Street. This is an occasion to meet with old friends and share all the news of all the years since your last get-togethers.

There will be a brief Annual Meeting to elect Alumnae/i Association officers and bring you up to date on Alumnae/i Association and high school affairs. We hope to present some student performers, and students will be available to take you touring this most recent high school building, as well as to answer your questions.

There will be an exhibit of archives and memorabilia, and a presentation about the new women's literature program by its coordinating faculty members, Ira Marienhoff and Barbara Miller, chairs of the social studies and English departments respectively. Many past and present faculty members, as well as principal Dr. Anthony Miserandino, are expected to join us.

There will, of course, be plenty of food: Morning refreshments will be served from 11 a.m. to noon. Then comes the main course, a gourmet buffet lunch catered by Famous Dairy Restaurant (kosher) of West 72nd Street.

You are a milestoner if your class year ends in "2" or "7." Most milestone classes are already planning for the Big Day. Check the list of class coordinators on page 4; if you have not yet heard from yours, let your own fingers do the walking.

Let your classmates and the Association know you're coming. Advance reservations are appreciated so much that there will be a substantial discount for everyone mailing in a Reunion reservation before May 15. See the coupon on page 7 for details and send in your reservation today! Don't wait to let the Association and your classmates know they can expect you to be there.

Remember that it has become an Alumnae/i tradition for milestone classes to make a gift to Hunter High for today's students as an appropriate way to celebrate

CREATIVITY PLUS

Vera Gordon '47

Creative members who paint with acrylics and with watercolors, who crochet, repair and bind books, embroider, make macramé jewelry, needlepoint, knit, make toys and do patchwork quilting, photograph, and weave will be showing and telling on Sunday, March 22, at our Meet-the-Members workshop and show, from 1 to 4 p.m. in the Hunter High cafeteria, Park Avenue and 94th Street.

Come and bring your friends. Watch the demonstrations and learn a new craft, try out a new technique, question our experts and learn new answers to your own do-it-yourself problems, admire the finished works on display and perhaps purchase a one-of-a-kind handcrafted item from one of our Hunter-grown artisans. As we go to press, the participants are: Veena Steen Burry '60, Vera J. Gordon '47, Jody Leight '72, Claudia Markovich '80, Sheila Sisselman Schnee '59, Charlotte Fromm Wacher '21, Ruth Walcott '40, Marjorie Pearle Weiser '51, Irene Winkelman '41.

Light refreshments will be served; bring your own "brown bag" if you wish.

We still have space for more participants. To demonstrate your creative edge productions, telephone Vera Gordon, 718-282-6693.□

EDITORIAL

It's almost 20 years since this Alumnae/i Association was reborn. In those first years we supported Hunter High against threats to its very existence and brought pressure at all political levels for a building the school could call its own. Those years were also a time of growth for us—learning what Alums could do, finding ways to organize ourselves, devising programs to meet varied interests and time constraints.

Most of those programs succeeded beyond imagining—Reunions, of course, but also brunches, theater parties, and Meet-the-Members presentations, which continue today. Each activity seems to bring out its own devotees. In recent years we've added poetry readings and regional chapters, and this year we hold our first crafts show, an expanded Meet-the-Members event (see article on page 1).

Our publications too have been a success—this newsletter has grown yearly, and we're now preparing the third issue of THAT'S WHAT'S SPECIAL, to be mailed this summer to all members in good standing.

Come and join your fellow Hunterites! Attend the Association's programs, don't miss Reunion '92, and mail your membership dues (hint: see coupon on page 7) so you'll be sure to receive our SPECIAL publication.

Dear Friends,

Welcome once again to ALUMNOTES and to the pleasure that each issue provides us all. Your frequent letters and calls tell us how much you enjoy this link with the Alumnae/i Association, with other alums, and with Hunter High today.

For me, this issue evokes sadness, too, since it is the one in which I say goodbye as Association president. The two years of my tenure have been busy and passed too quickly. They've been full of the rewards that volunteer service brings, most especially the chance to learn more about alums worldwide and how the Association might better serve us all. They also gave me the opportunity to be more closely involved with Hunter High today.

I've found it extremely gratifying to be an active participant in the Hunter community. Attending student concerts and plays, reading the news of the day in What's What and student works in other publications, listening to students share their thoughts at our alumnae/i poetry readings have been fun and thought-provoking. It's been a privilege to represent the Association in the school, to work with parents, faculty, and students (who each year join us as new alums) as they weighed issues affecting their daily lives together. I've enjoyed it all.

Most of all, I've enjoyed the opportunity to work with other alums on the executive committee. Their cooperation and generous sharing of personal time are the foundation of the Association's efforts. They've been supporters, moderators, friends.

The completion of one term of office means the beginning of another. The next opportunity belongs to you. Hundreds of alums from all graduation classes live in the New York City metropolitan area. You're all eager to get the news of the Association. Why not help make that news? Just a few hours a month from a small number of you would greatly increase the Association's ability to pursue projects and develop programs to benefit ourselves and Hunter. The rewards are great. Give us a call.

My thanks and good wishes to all.

Fondly

Margaret Betz Perrin '55

INSIDE HUNTER HIGH

Erica Goldman '92 was a finalist in the Westinghouse National Science competition. One of five Hunterites to compete, her research project was "The Upside Down response in Sea Stars." . . . In January, 2,765 sixth graders from all boroughs vied for approximately 250 places in the seventh grade class entering next September. . . . A Presidential End Hunger Award was posthumously given to art teacher Ana Bozzo by President George Bush on December 12. During her years at Hunter, Ms. Bozzo was adviser to Hunter Action Against Hunger. . . . Works by 1991 graduates Julie Chen, Judy Yeh, and Christian Olvet were included in the New York Art Teachers Association Art Show held in Albany in October. . . . Revelation, a five-person HCHS singing group, traveled to Paris with adviser Lisha Papert over the Thanksgiving holiday and sang for the American ambassador on Thanksgiving Day. The trip was supported by a $5000 grant for cultural exchange from the Florence Gould Foundation, as well as by proceeds from the group's performances. . . . Math teacher and interim acting department chair Mary Gargiulo Fiore celebrated 30 years as a Hunter High faculty member in February. . . . The HCHS Student Life Committee, which consists of 7 faculty members, 2 parents, and student reps from each term, chaired by Health Ed teacher Lillian Dvrostep, is exploring how best to implement the NYC Board of Education's condom availability program at Hunter. . . . The Campus Schools librarians, Harriet Aufses, High School (212-860-1264), and Regina Brauer, Elementary School (212-860-1297), are planning the computerization of their library catalogs and circulation systems. They are seeking a consultant to advise them on hardware, software, and systems. Knowledgeable alums are requested to give them a call. . . . The 10th Annual HCHS PTA Pot-Luck Dinner will be held at the High School on Tuesday evening, April 7. Proceeds from this major parent fundraiser provide grants for a variety of school projects. The event is also a great social gathering of faculty and parents. Metropolitan-area alums who enjoy blind auctions and such and wish to attend an event that supports Hunter today should call the PTA Hotline, 212-860-5060, for details. The Alumnae/i Association contributes to this event and sends representatives, too-so you won't be the only Alum there. \(\square$

DIRECTORY OF ALUMS TO BE PUBLISHED NEXT YEAR

The Alumnae/i Association has made arrangements for publication of an up-to-date and complete reference directory of more than 7,000 Hunter College High School graduates. This comprehensive volume, in library-quality binding, will include current name as well as school name, home address and phone number, academic data, and professional and business information if provided.

The Association has contracted with the prestigious Bernard C. Harris Publishing Company, Inc., to produce our Directory. Harris, which has published similar volumes for numerous other high schools and colleges (including Stuyvesant and Bronx Science), will soon begin researching and compiling information by mailing a questionnaire to everyone on the Association's mailing list. (If you prefer not to be listed in the Directory, please contact the Alumnae/i office in writing as soon as possible.)

The Association's officers interviewed Harris representatives extensively before deciding to go forward with this project. In particular, they were impressed with the safeguards and careful procedures the publisher described for assuring the privacy and noncommercial use of the Directory.

ALUMNOTES will keep you informed about the progress of this exciting project. We look forward to the day, about a year from now, when our own Directory will soon make finding a Hunter College High School friend as easy as opening a book.

REUNION REFLECTIONS

ON A 30TH REUNION

Phyllis Klein, M.D. '61

Until a year ago, I had never attended my various reunions—medical school, college or high school. Last year I attended them all.

In my case, having long passed the midpoint of my life, it's become important to me to see where I've been and to see where everyone else has been; to compare, to contrast, to put my life into perspective. I need to feel that I have achieved some of my goals and to figure out why I have failed in some other. At my class get-together that afternoon in June, we talked about how preoccupied with ourselves we were in our high school days. I still carry that trait today.

When I arrived at Harvey's in the Chelsea area, after the usual concerns about my appearance, two outfits later, fatter, more wrinkled, and grayer, I saw other people I hardly recognized after 30 years. What I did recognize, however, was that the values of our student days had changed so little. So many in the class had entered service professions, helping others, as we were taught is our feminine role. We are social workers, therapists, teachers, doctors, dentists, lawyers. We are idealists. (Can we say that about our successors?) But did we trade service in the home for service in the workplace?

The class reunion was a great success. It was well attended, noisy but mellow, and well worth the trip from California. I hope to be there for Number 35.

ON A 50TH REUNION

Harriet Fruim, January '41

The first reunion I attended was my 50th! I had a wonderful time and kept thinking: Why haven't I done this every year?

I always wondered—what does 65-ish look like?—and I found out. We came in all sizes and shapes. Our hair color had a similar variety.

Thanks to the Alumnae/i Association for making everything so pleasant for our 50th anniversary. □

NEW BOOK FEATURES CAMPUS SCHOOLS

The newest book in the Education and Psychology of the Gifted Series published by Teachers College Press is The Hunter College Campus Schools for the Gifted: The Challenge of Equity and Excellence. Author Elizabeth Stone, professor of English and Media Studies at Fordham/The College at Lincoln Center, spent a year at the schools during a particularly turbulent period. Her account draws on the school archives, her observations of classrooms, administrative and PTA meetings, and more than 200 interviews with past and present students, teachers, administrators and parents.

Stone acknowledges numerous graduates of the high school who provided information, from Juliette Benton '16 and Regina Reiner-Deutsch '18 to 11 members of the class of '88 and Joshua Burstein '89. Her research took her to the Hunter College Archives as well as to the growing archives housed in the High School library; she also studied academic approaches to and theories concerning education of the intellectually gifted.

The 168-page book begins with the history of the Elementary and High Schools and their evolution into schools for the intellectually gifted. It then explores the period, beginning in about 1965, when concerns arose about "equity," equal access to a Campus Schools education for all bright youngsters regardless of racial or other considerations. The story is brought up to date with discussion of the issues that led to a coeducational High School, the desire to achieve and maintain a diverse student body that produced frequent revisions of the admissions policies of both schools, and the period of crisis and change that occurred in the late 1980s.

Believing that Hunter High graduates will have a particular interest in Stone's book, which is available both in paperback and hardcover, the publisher is offering a discount to readers of ALUMNOTES until June 30, 1992. For ordering information, see AlumnaGrams on page 6.
